

ANTIQUUE VARIETY

FILLED TO THE BRIM
WITH A WIDE VARIETY OF FURNITURE, ART,
AND COLLECTIBLES,
E. J. GRANT ANTIQUES IS BOUND TO HAVE SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE'S TASTES.

After 21 years, E.J. Grant Antiques has developed a following. East Coast customers, scouring the shop for the perfect piece, may be caught peeking in shipment boxes before the contents even make it onto the showroom floor. Sometimes they find the precise object of their desire; other times they may buy something—an armoire, for instance—to be adapted to modern-day needs. (Complete with a finishing and cabinetry shop in the store, E.J. Grant Antiques can restore or adapt almost any piece.)

Located in Savage, Maryland, the shop is known for its consistently excellent quality and varied selection. Owners Ed and Jane Grant travel to Europe nearly every eight weeks in search of auctions, shops, and antiques dealers, picking up pieces along the way. Specializing in formal and country furnishings, the 14,000-square-foot shop uses every available surface for the overflowing selection—paintings cover the walls, hutches hold stacks of pottery and glassware, and tables display vast arrangements of accessories. Most pieces are European 18th- and 19th-century furniture, but pieces from more than two dozen countries are represented. □

Ed and Jane Grant try to find pieces that are ready to go right onto the showroom floor, but they also have an eye for potential. They salvaged this sofa because of its beautiful frame.
